

HOMECURRENT ISSUESUBSCRIBEABOUTADVERTISECONTACT

adventures

Follow along on current expeditions and journeys around the world.

environment

Check out what's being done to preserve our playground.

gear

Check out the reviews of the latest gear to help you prepare for your next adventure.

multimedia

Kill some time with extreme sports videos and podcasts.

travel

Find the latest about adventure destinations across the globe.

Home » Archive by Category

Articles in AR World Series

AR World Championships Attract Top North American Teams

August 22, 2009 – 4:05 am | No Comment

An amazing field of talent is assembled on the team list for the 2009 Adventure Racing World Championships in Portugal this November. Adventure racing luminaries such as OrionHealth (fresh off their impressive victory at PrimalQuest Badlands and the defending 2008 AR World Champions), Quechua (a very strong European team), Lundhags Adventure (a Scandinavian force to be reckoned with), and Blackheart (a top Australian team) jump out at you . . . but there are also some fantastic teams from North America that are going to join the party!

Race Updates »

Dramatic Battle to the Finish Line at the Leadville Trail 100

Defending champions, an attempt at the course record, new runners, and veteran runners created many questions and anticipation prior to the Leadville Trail 100 mile race. Race day, the talented group of athletes gave outstanding performances spawning lead changes throughout making the race nothing short of pure excitement. After an unfortunate drop-out by race leader, Anton Krupicka, at mile 70, the drama increased as first place was then up for grabs.

More articles »

AR World Series »

AR World Championships Attract Top North American Teams

An amazing field of talent is assembled on the team list for the 2009 Adventure Racing World Championships in Portugal this November. Adventure racing luminaries such as OrionHealth (fresh off their impressive victory at PrimalQuest Badlands and the defending 2008 AR World Champions), Quechua (a very strong European team), Lundhags Adventure (a Scandinavian force to be reckoned with), and Blackheart (a top Australian team) jump out at you . . . but there are also some fantastic teams from North America that are going to join the party!